“Guerrilla gardening is gardening on land that the gardeners do not have legal right to use, often an abandoned site or area not cared for by anyone. It encompasses a very diverse range of people and motivations, from the enthusiastic gardener who spills over their legal boundaries to the highly political gardener who seeks to provoke change through direct action. The land that is guerrilla gardened is usually abandoned or neglected by its legal owner. That land is used by guerrilla gardeners to raise plants, frequently focusing on food crops or plants intended to reclaim land from perceived neglect or misuse. Some guerrilla gardeners carry out their actions at night, in relative secrecy, to sow and tend “useful” species along roadsides and in parks. The produce could be harvested within the planting of fruit and nut trees in public areas due to upkeep.

Guerrilla gardening networking page: <http://guerrillagardening.org/community/index.php?board=29.0>

Guerrilla gardening Facebook page: <www.facebook.com/guerrillagardening>

Some garden at more visible hours to be seen by people and motivations, from the enthusiastic gardener who spills over their legal boundaries to the highly political gardener who seeks to provoke change through direct action. The land that is guerrilla gardened is usually abandoned or neglected by its legal owner. That land is used by guerrilla gardeners to raise plants, frequently focusing on food crops or plants intended to reclaim land from perceived neglect or misuse. Some guerrilla gardeners carry out their actions at night, in relative secrecy, to sow and tend “useful” species along roadsides and in parks. The produce could be harvested within the planting of fruit and nut trees in public areas due to upkeep.

Guerrilla gardening networking page: <http://guerrillagardening.org/community/index.php?board=29.0>

Guerrilla gardening Facebook page: <www.facebook.com/guerrillagardening>

Some garden at more visible hours to be seen by people and motivations, from the enthusiastic gardener who spills over their legal boundaries to the highly political gardener who seeks to provoke change through direct action. The land that is guerrilla gardened is usually abandoned or neglected by its legal owner. That land is used by guerrilla gardeners to raise plants, frequently focusing on food crops or plants intended to reclaim land from perceived neglect or misuse. Some guerrilla gardeners carry out their actions at night, in relative secrecy, to sow and tend “useful” species along roadsides and in parks. The produce could be harvested within the planting of fruit and nut trees in public areas due to upkeep.

Guerrilla gardening networking page: <http://guerrillagardening.org/community/index.php?board=29.0>

Guerrilla gardening Facebook page: <www.facebook.com/guerrillagardening>

Some garden at more visible hours to be seen by people and motivations, from the enthusiastic gardener who spills over their legal boundaries to the highly political gardener who seeks to provoke change through direct action. The land that is guerrilla gardened is usually abandoned or neglected by its legal owner. That land is used by guerrilla gardeners to raise plants, frequently focusing on food crops or plants intended to reclaim land from perceived neglect or misuse. Some guerrilla gardeners carry out their actions at night, in relative secrecy, to sow and tend “useful” species along roadsides and in parks. The produce could be harvested within the planting of fruit and nut trees in public areas due to upkeep.

Guerrilla gardening networking page: <http://guerrillagardening.org/community/index.php?board=29.0>

Guerrilla gardening Facebook page: <www.facebook.com/guerrillagardening>

Some garden at more visible hours to be seen by people and motivations, from the enthusiastic gardener who spills over their legal boundaries to the highly political gardener who seeks to provoke change through direct action. The land that is guerrilla gardened is usually abandoned or neglected by its legal owner. That land is used by guerrilla gardeners to raise plants, frequently focusing on food crops or plants intended to reclaim land from perceived neglect or misuse. Some guerrilla gardeners carry out their actions at night, in relative secrecy, to sow and tend “useful” species along roadsides and in parks. The produce could be harvested within the planting of fruit and nut trees in public areas due to upkeep.

Guerrilla gardening networking page: <http://guerrillagardening.org/community/index.php?board=29.0>

Guerrilla gardening Facebook page: <www.facebook.com/guerrillagardening>

Some garden at more visible hours to be seen by people and motivations, from the enthusiastic gardener who spills over their legal boundaries to the highly political gardener who seeks to provoke change through direct action. The land that is guerrilla gardened is usually abandoned or neglected by its legal owner. That land is used by guerrilla gardeners to raise plants, frequently focusing on food crops or plants intended to reclaim land from perceived neglect or misuse. Some guerrilla gardeners carry out their actions at night, in relative secrecy, to sow and tend “useful” species along roadsides and in parks. The produce could be harvested within the planting of fruit and nut trees in public areas due to upkeep.